Biophilic Design:

The Architecture of Life

Apr. 7, 7 p.m.,

Treaty Site History Center,

Free. No Registration required.

62 min., Rated for Grades 7 to Adult. Biophilic Design is an innovative way of designing the places where we live, work, and learn. Come on a journey from our evolutionary past and the origins of architecture to the world's most celebrated buildings in a search for the architecture of life. Together, we will encounter buildings that connect people and nature-hospitals where patients heal faster, schools where children's test scores are higher, offices where workers are more productive, and communities where people know more of their neighbors and families thrive. Biophilic Design points the way toward creating healthy and productive habitats for modern humans. Watch the trailer:

The Trouble with Bread

May 5, 7 p.m., Treaty Site History Center,

Free. No Registration required.

26 min., not rated. This documentary investigates the changes to something so basic to humanity, and yet recently, so demonized: bread. Film maker Maggie Beidelman states, "As a self-deprecating, gluten-intolerant filmmaker, I journey from farm to mill to table on a hunt for the perfect loaf-one I can eat without getting sick-and a quest for answers about gluten intolerance. Along the way, I learn that the way we grow and mill wheat and ferment bread has changed significantly in the past couple of generations, and that these changes could be making me sick. Let's just say that bread as you know it, is not what you think." Watch the trailer: http://www.thetroublewithbread.com/?page_id=31
